

2009 Chief of the Year

Kentucky Association of Chiefs of Police Chief of the Year

Chief Michael Ward has distinguished himself in a very long career in law enforcement that began with his service in the United States Air Force all the way to his current position as the Police Chief for the City of Alexandria, Kentucky.

He has served as the President of the Northern Kentucky Police Chiefs Association and is the current President of K.A.C.P. He has also served many years as a representative on the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council. These are only a few of the many organizations he has served in to promote and better our chosen profession.

While serving to better our profession Chief Ward has never forgotten where he came from and will go out of his way to assist any fellow officer or citizen in need. He continually strives to move our profession forward, not only for his officers, but officers all across the state.

Chief Ward's commitment to our profession and the Kentucky Association of Chiefs of Police has been outstanding. He has worked tirelessly with staff, and others, so that we will continue to be a strong and valued voice in the law enforcement community. His leadership and direction has truly been an asset to our profession.

This year all three regional nominations have been for Chief J. Michael Ward, our K.A.C.P. Chief of the Year.
